More of Delmar's Eccentricities.

FROM WASHINGTON.

L'espaich to the Associated Press. Taxation Statistics.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 .- The Director of the Bureau of Statistics is preparing an elaborate report upon the statistics of taxation in the United States. It will exhibit the Federal, State, county, township and corporation taxes in detail throughout the country. The total sum of the various revenues now exceeds $700,-000,000 per annum, a sum which forms a considerable portion of the entire earnings of the people. The various forms of taxation are discussed with minuteness, and the report embraces the statistics of 37 States, 2159 counties and a still larger number of municipalities.

MUSICAL AND DRAMATIC.

"Barbe Blene"

The last instalment of Offenbach with which we have been favored in this city improves as we become more familiar with it. As we have already remarked, it is characterized throughout by the peculiarities which stamp Offenbach's scores with an individuality more marked than that of any other prominent composer, with the exception, perhaps, of Wagner, the musician of the future. At every stace in the score the striking features of La Grande Dunhesse and La Beile Helene are repeated, the most prominent of them being that remarkable transition from the lower to the higher register which can only be effected by the interposition of a sound closely approaching a half-suppressed howl. It is not high art; indeed, to the critical ear it conveys the impression that the composer is deficient in the resources of high art. But it is very taking with an audience that is bent upon being pleased with every musical atrocity that Offenbach has perpetrated; and, when accompanied with the peculiar expression of feature and pose of the whole body which are affected by both Tostee and Irma, it never fails to piease the fancy of the audience and to clicit the most uproatious applause.

The repetition of Barbe B eue reveals several attractive strains which are insured popularity by the time that we have seen and heard as much o Barbe B eue as we have of La Grande Duchesse. Most prominent among these are the sria sung by "Boulotte," near the close of the second acr. commencing with the words, "Pourquoi qu'ils m' font tous les gros yeux?" rendered by Irms in the most captivating style; and the legend of "Blue Beard," in the first act, "Ma premiere femme est rerte," into which the rollicking Aujac throws all the jolly carnestness and humorous pathos of his true artist's soul. Of a much higher rank than both these in point of intrinsic merit is the ersemble in the third act, "Brigand, ma neunesse," and "Amours nouvelles," to which full justice is rendered by both Irma and Aujac. The situation is one which calls for an unusual display of vocal and histrionic power. "Bine Beard," inspired by his new love for the "Princess Hermia," announces to "Boulotte" that she must share the fate of her predecessors, and does it in the most tantalizing way, as if the rapid transition of his affections were at once an excellent joke and a barsh decree of fate. "Boulotte" at first accepts the former bearing of the case alone: but when she is fully convinced that there is a terrible earnestness in her unprincipled spouse, she assumes the most vehement style, burls the sharpest invectives at her faltbless and cruel lord, and pleads her youth, her tears, and her woman's weakness with grand effect. This touching scene is interpreted by Irma and Aujac with a fervor and artistic taste which impress their auditors with a high sense of their culture and powers. The accompanying score is not remarkably difficult, but it approaches the standard of the school of true art more closely than anything which we can now call to mind in such of Offenbach's productions as we have listened to. In the midet of the composer's trivial brilliancies, the whole scene is a rare gem. which can be all the better aspreciated by reason of its light and sparkling setting.

FROOTING STARS.-Every body that wants to see anything wants to see the shooting stars, but everybody coes not want to be up all night watching, and as no one knows exactly was n the calestial fireworks will be set off, to know how, when, and where to look for them may not be uninteresting. All agree they are set off from the constellation Leo the Lion, which cannot be seen to advantage before 2 o'clock in the morning, above the cast horizon, the middle of November, and twilight will begin about 5% o'clock when the Lion's head will be nearly on the meridian, ten degrees below the zenith, and his tall on a line from the south to the southeast, half-way up, or altitude 45 deg. So any one sleeping in a room with a window opening east or south may easily watch when that interesting display will take place and those who want to know more definitely may get that valuable information from the Movable Hemis pheres, at No. 512 Arch street, Phliadelphia, or at any other Book Store.

What is Dyspepsia?

1. A Constant Pain or Uneasiness in the Pit of the Stomach-Which is caused by a perm, went contraction of the stomach upon undige ted food. It generally begins immediately, or a short time after eating; is often very seven e and obstinate.

2. Flatnience and Acidity.-These symptoms arise fro, u the indigestion of food, which ferments instea 1 of digesting.

3. Costivenes 3 and Loss of Appetite .-These symptoms are the effects of the nnnatural condition of food in the stomach, and the want of pure bile and gastric juice. The stomach is often paint. lly distended by wind; the appetite is sometime as voracious.

4. Gloom and Depre sion of Spirits .-This state unfita many A or the enjoyment of life, and is caused by the impure blood farnished by imperfect digestion . In this stage of the disease, many persons commit suicide. There is a constant foreboding of evil, and an indifference and positive inability to perform the offices of life.

5. Diarrhea.—After being at 1 rat costive, the sufferer is afflicted with diarra wa, which is owing to a diseased condition of the bowels produced by the undigested food, which evacuated in the same condition, as when eaten, and, of course, gives ne strength to the system.

6. Pains in All Parts of the System arise from the action of impure blood a pon the nerves. They are felt chiefly in the hand, sides, and breast, and in the extremities. In many cases there is an uneasiness in the throat, with a sense of choking or suffocation: the mouth is often clammy, with a bad taste and furred tongue.

7. Consumptive Symptoms and Palpetation of the Heart.—Many persons pronounced as having these diseases have, in fact, nothing but dyspepsia, the lung and heart disease being only symptoms.

8. Cough.-This is a very frequent symptom of Dyspepsia, and leads very often intoconfirmed consumption.

9. Want of Sleep .- A very distressing symptom, resulting often in mental derangement.

10. Symptoms of External Relation .- The patient is affected painfully by cold and heat, which is owing to unnatural dryness of skin, and the skin is often affected by eruptions and tetters. The gloomy dyspeptic avoids society as much as possible.

11. Vomiting.—A frequent and distressing symptom. It relieves the pain, but emaciates and wears out the patient.

12 Dizziness, Dimness of Vision, Headache, and Staggering in Walking.-These are very alarming symptoms, which are speedily removed by our medicine; but if neglected, are quickly followed by numbuess and sadden death.

13. It is impossible for us to give all the symptoms of Dyspepsia in so small a space, but the above are considered sufficient-if we add that the patient loses his memory and regard to surrounding objects, and frequently becomes morose and sour in disposition. should say, however, that pains in the joints and stiffness of the limbs, which go by the name of rheumatism and neuralgia, are produced by Dyspepsia. Also, a hardness of the muscles of the abdomen, which become contracted and hard; and in some cases the belly sinks, instead of being gently prominent.

N. B .- Perhaps we have not said enough of that strongest symptom of Dyspepsia, melancholy. We have examined hundreds of cases of Dyspeptics who were so much affected in their minds that they constantly foreboded loss of their reason, which unfitted them for business of any kind, and many of them have been patients of the Insane Asylum, wno are now permanently cured by our medicines.

We take pleasure in informing the public that we have at great expense secured the professional services of Dr. William T. Magee, who was intimately acquainted with the private practice of the late Dr. Wishart, as well as thoroughly conversant with his mode of ascertaining the cause and effect of various diseases. He enjoyed the fullest confidence of the late Dr. Wishart, and was in consultation with him almost constantly for many years. He has in his possession various newly-discovered and private remedies used by the late Dr. Wishart in his private practice with such uniform success in the cure of chronic and long-standing diseases, which in hundreds of cases bafiled the skill of some of the most eminent physicians of various schools of the land; and which contributed to a great extent, and accounted for the enviable reputation he enjoyed as a successful practising physician of the reformed school at the time of his decease. In view of these facts, we most cordially recommend him to the former patrons and friends of the late Dr. Wishart, and to the afflicted, with the full assurance that those who need professional counsel or aid will find in the said Dr. Magee a physician of more than ordinary abilities. He can minutely describe your disease, explain the cause and effect of the same, as well as give sound and practical advice for the preservation of health, prevention of various diseases, and perform cures when all other physicians fail. When hopelessly given up to die by all other physicians, give our remedies a Come ye who are afflicted with Consump-

SIMES' PURE COD LIVER OIL

There are several species of Gadus. Only the Gadus Morrhus, caught at newfoundland, yields Oil rich in medicinal virtues. To secure this, Mr. Simes, at an enormous expense, made arrangements on the spot, and, by a to'ally new process, p epared Oil fresh from the livers of the fish. After careful analysis and extensive trial by the medical profession, SIME? PURE COD LIVER OIL is now pronounced incomparably superior to all other preparations of the same article in the market. Free from smell, delicious to the taste, and I naded with all the murrient and curative properties which render Cod Liver Oil famous as a therapentic. pentic.
